LACK OF INDEPENDENCE

Active Super is not independent, impartial or unbiased in providing the financial services in this FSG, because many of the products that we may recommend to our clients are issued by us.

What financial services are available to you?

Our Authorised Representatives can provide you with both personal and general advice on a range of financial products from leading financial institutions on our Approved Products List. This list is constantly monitored and we add or remove products from time to time as appropriate. A copy of the Approved Product List is available on request.

Personal advice

Whether or not you are a member of Active Super, our qualified financial planners can provide you with personal advice which takes into account your particular objectives, financial situation and needs, in relation to Active Super products and other financial products. Our personal advice is restricted to:

- Retirement products including superannuation, account-based pensions and annuities
 - Salary sacrifice
 - Personal contributions
 - Investment choice
 - Financial hardship claims
- Deposit and payment products
- Life and income protection insurance
- Investment in managed investment schemes.

General advice

We also offer a range of general advice and educational services which give you an opportunity to receive general advice about Active Super, issues relating to superannuation, investment options, and other related matters.

These services are offered through seminars and online tools and calculators, as well as over the phone or face-to-face.

It is important to note that these services neither provide tailored recommendations, which take into account your needs and objectives, nor do they consider what may be best for your individual circumstances. In using these services, you should consider the appropriateness of the information, with regard to your objectives, financial situation or needs, before making any financial decisions.

Advice documents you may receive

Statement of Advice

Whenever we provide you with personal advice, we will give you a Statement of Advice (SoA). The SoA (commonly referred to as a financial plan) contains the personal advice and recommendations, the basis on which they have been given, the risks associated with the advice, and information about relevant fees and charges.

Record of Advice

If you have previously received personal advice from us in the form of an SoA and we provide further advice which relates to that advice and your personal circumstances have not significantly changed, we may provide the further advice to you in the form of a Record of Advice (RoA).

If we do not give you the RoA in writing, you may request a copy of the RoA at any time up to seven years from the date you were given the further advice. You can request the RoA by contacting us in writing, by telephone or email.

General Advice Letter

When we have provided you with general advice we may give you a General Advice Letter (GAL). The GAL sets out details of the advice provided and confirms its general nature.

Product Disclosure Statement

When we make a recommendation to acquire a particular financial product or offer to issue or arrange a financial product on your behalf, we must provide you with the Product Disclosure Statement (PDS) for that product.

A PDS contains important information about the features, risks, benefits, terms and conditions, and costs of a product, and will help you to make an informed decision in relation to the acquisition of that product.

Who is responsible for the financial services we provide?

When providing you with the range of financial services we offer, our Authorised Representatives are at all times acting on behalf of Active Super.

Our AFS Licence does not cover any information or advice provided by your employer and Active Super is not responsible for financial services or advice provided by employers' staff.

Our fees and charges

General advice

There will be no additional cost for providing general advice services as such costs are already included in the administration fee which is charged to your Active Super account.

Personal advice

The cost for receiving personal advice services depends on the nature and scope of the advice you seek from our Authorised Representatives. We will discuss any fee payable when meeting with you, and advise the cost should you decide to proceed with obtaining the advice. The fee may be charged as follows:

- Fees that are already included in the administration fee charged to your Active Super account.
- A fee which is disclosed in our Terms of Engagement, which may either be charged to an eligible Active Super account or paid by you into our trust account prior to the financial service being provided.

Any monies received in our trust account are held in trust in a manner consistent with our Terms of Engagement where:

- Monies will be transferred to Active Super as payment for services upon the provision of the financial services to you – in most instances, this will be when we post or present a Statement of Advice to you; or
- You decide to not proceed with obtaining financial advice and the monies are refunded to you (a charge will be applied to any refunds which means that not all monies will be returned to you). Please contact our member care consultants for further details.

Remuneration, commission and other benefits

Our Authorised Representatives are salaried employees of Active Super.

No commissions or volume-related bonuses are paid to Authorised Representatives of Active Super in relation to the financial advice and services provided to you. Authorised Representatives are measured on Key Performance Indicators and these are not linked to their remuneration.

With some products, Active Super is remunerated by product providers through a one-off or ongoing trail commissions for the life of the investment. These commissions can vary depending on the product and manager. For example, if you invest $10,000 in a product with an ongoing commission of 0.5%, Active Super will receive $50 per annum.

Active Super makes every attempt to rebate these amounts to you, however, this may not be achieved on every occasion. If a rebate is not achieved, Active Super retains any amount paid this way to assist us in meeting the costs of the services we provide.

The cost of any advice provided to you will be dependent on the nature of the advice. While General Advice will not attract any additional cost to you, some forms of Personal Advice may be subject to an advice fee. This fee is based on the scope and complexity of the service. All financial advice service fees will be discussed with you prior the provision of any service which is subject to a fee. Our Authorised Representatives will let you know whether or not this advice fee will be applicable to your situation at the initial stages of the advice process.

If you receive personal advice from us, we will tell you about any commissions or other benefits we receive in the Statement of Advice and where possible, we will outline these benefits in actual dollar amounts.
